

“Building on the Best”

GAE4-HYDP Annual Meeting and Professional Development Conference
Augusta Marriott at the Convention Center
August 29-31, 2022

Welcome to Augusta!

Welcome to the 2022 GAE4-HYDP Annual Meeting and Professional Development Conference: Building on the Best! As a native of the CSRA (Central Savannah River Area), I'm thrilled to have you visit one of the many places I have called "home" while also engaging in professional development opportunities, celebrating the past year's accomplishments, and enjoying fellowship with each other.

Throughout my years in Extension, I have never doubted 4-H professionals' dedication to improving the lives of the youth and families we serve. We give our best. However, our motto "to make the best better" calls on us to continuously reflect, evaluate, and learn so that we can improve our skills as professionals to better serve our audiences -- that is what I love so much about our professional association and our time together at our annual meeting.

It provides an opportunity for each of us to "build on the best" through our involvement in committees and district associations, while also remaining open to opportunities to learn from our colleagues through workshops, posters, and informal conversations. I hope that as a member you will take full advantage of the opportunities available to you.

While you're here, I hope that you will take the opportunity to enjoy all that Augusta has to offer. Just like our association, it is filled with history. Augusta is the birthplace of many funk and soul legends. It's the second oldest and the second largest city in Georgia (behind Savannah and Atlanta, respectively), and, while perhaps best known as the home to the Master's Golf Tournament, Augusta offers a great combination of music, food, and drink, along with plenty of attractions, indoors and out. One of my personal favorite things about Augusta is the local art and culture -- which comes together through local public artworks. Throughout this program, you will see the work of some of my favorite local artists. I hope you enjoy their work as much as I do.

As you can tell, the GAE4-HYDP annual meeting is a personal highlight of my year. Thank you for making an investment in your professional development by being a part of this conference. Although I have been honored to serve as conference chair this year, this would not be possible without the hard work of our planning committee. Many kudos to Samantha Price, Kate Whiting, Leah Wooddall, Ashley Harmon, Shirley Williamson, Megan Powell, Susannah Lanier, and Dinah Rowe for all of their work to make this conference possible.

Take care, have fun, and be safe. Cheers!

Sincerely,

Hannah Dasher

Whether she's whipping up a recipe for her viral TikTok "Stand By Your Pan" series, or penning her next hit with some of Nashville's top songwriters, Hannah Dasher is not slowing down when it comes to getting where she's always planned to be.

Raised in Savannah, GA, Hannah would spend hours reading album covers front-to-back as a child, all while taking cues from a diverse lineup of influences like Alan Jackson, Hank Jr., Tom Petty, Eric Church, and Aretha Franklin. After graduating from the University of Georgia, Dasher moved into a small attic apartment just off Music Row in Nashville. To make ends meet, she began working five days a week selling fishing boats and outboard motors at Bass Pro Shops. She was later fired from Bass Pro for writing songs on the job. Soon after, she landed her first publishing deal, and as fate would have it, her first cut, Brad Paisley's "Go To Bed Early," was from an idea she'd been working on during her last days employed at Bass Pro.

Hannah continued to grab attention at writers' nights and local showcases such as Whiskey Jam (where people started comparing her to Jamey Johnson) and earning the nickname "Hannah Damn Dasher" from her fellow tunesmiths.

The hustle has clearly paid off for Dasher, who has rocked audiences across the country, opening for greats including her hero Bocephus, The Cadillac Three and Lynyrd Skynyrd. Now with her own music, Dasher solidifies that she is not to be overlooked, with traditional-cut artistry, bold lyrics, and can't-be-duplicated personality.

Laura Warren

Laura is an Emmy-nominated investigative journalist, evening news anchor, and a distinguished Mitchell County 4-H alumna. She graduated with honors from the University of Georgia in December 2011 with a degree in Broadcast News. She interned for News 12 during the summer of 2011, and her news director offered her a job before she even graduated. She started working for News 12 that November, reporting on the weekends before she graduated in December and became a full-time reporter. A little over a year later, she started co-anchoring the First at Five newscast. Two and a half years later, she began anchoring the evening news at 6:00 PM and 11:00 and contributing in-depth, investigative reports.

During her time as a reporter in Augusta she has covered breaking news from tornadoes, floods, ice storms, and plane crashes to investigative pieces into sex trafficking, fraud, cover-ups, and misuse of taxpayer funds by police and government agencies. She received an Emmy nomination for her investigation into private security companies operating illegally without proper training or licensing at many of our largest local venues. That investigation led to local venue policy changes, a state investigation, and ongoing reform within the industry. She has been honored with numerous awards over her decade in journalism including recognition as the Best Anchor/Reporter by the Associated Press, the Best Personality by the Georgia Association of Broadcasters, and the Best Reporter, Writer, and Anchor by the National Association of Television Arts and Sciences.

She loves telling news stories, but her favorite stories are bedtime stories. She is mom to John Michael and Addison. Laura is also on the North Augusta Family Y Board of Directors. In her spare time, she loves cheering on the Dawgs, playing golf, traveling with her husband, and cooking.

SAFE Shooting Sports: Successful Best Practices for Working with Volunteers

Walsh A

Adrianne Cox, 4-H Agent, Harris Co.; Bill Hammond, 4-H Agent, Coweta Co.

Managing volunteers in the SAFE team disciplines can be a challenge when you are a new Extension professional. This is a session to learn the basics of managing 4-H SAFE team volunteers, keeping communication flowing, and fundraising. We will share our "Best Practices" to help ensure you have success with a 4-H SAFE team volunteer.

H.E.R.O.E.S. Program for Special Education

Walsh B

Sonya Jones, 4-H Agent/CEC, Pulaski Co.

Pulaski 4-H celebrates differences and promotes inclusion, diversity, & equity. H.E.R.O.E.S. is a program that was created for K, 3rd, 4th, and 5th grade special education students designed to help youth recognize, respect, and celebrate those special and extraordinary qualities in themselves and others.

Literacy: A Perfect Complement to Your 4-H Program

Hamilton A

Christina Garner, FACS Agent/CEC, Stewart Co.; Ashley Carroll, 4-H Agent, Tift Co.

This session will give participants a toolkit of activities and tips to integrate literacy into their existing 4-H programs. Participants will engage in two hands-on, exciting activities and leave with three ready-to-implement programs for youth of all ages in a variety of settings!

Geometry Basics – – – One Kite at a Time!

Moody

Kasey Bozeman, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Science Programs

Math is usually seen as a boring subject with numbers, calculators, and protractors. During this hands-on session, participants will build paper kites learning basic geometry terms and concepts. Discussion includes lesson adaption for different audiences as well as overall implementation strategies.

County Government 101

Oglethorpe A

Cheryl Poppell, 4-H Agent/CEC, Toombs Co.; Jeff Christie, Leadership Development Director, ACCG; Kelle Ashley, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Leadership and Civic Engagement Programs

Partnerships with county governments are essential to successful county Extension programs. Do you want to learn more about county governments and how to build successful partnerships with county government departments? Attend this session to learn more.

"Your Reality": A Financial Literacy Program for Teens

Oglethorpe B

Jakyn Tyson, 4-H Agent/CEC, Emanuel Co.

Learn about "Your Reality," a financial literacy program conducted with high school seniors that included a series of lessons and a culminating immersive experience based on the student's own career plans, future salaries, and lifestyle choices. Walk away with ideas for replication in your county.

Poster Abstracts

On the Farm: Training 4-H Youth in Pest Management and Agribusiness Careers

Cindy Meadows, 4-H Agent, Seminole Co.; Ethan Carter, Regional Crop IPM Agent, Jackson Co., FL.; Cody Bowling, ANR Agent, Seminole Co.; Brian Hayes, ANR Agent, Mitchell Co.; Cale Cloud, ANR Agent, Grady Co.; Sedrick Mack, Regional Extension Agent, Headland, AL.; Reid Miller, Agriculture Agent, Greenwood Co., SC.; Andrew Warner, Director of Agriculture and Research and Campus Landscape, South Carolina Governors Ag School John de la Howe

One of the largest industries in the southeastern United States is agriculture, with the average farmer being 57.5 years old. It's imperative to educate youth on this sector and increase community engagement. This annual three-day program focused on 7-12th grade youth from FL, GA, and AL. Over the last four years, Extension Agents from three states have jointly conducted the Southeastern Crop Scout School to educate youth on different farm systems and crop management practices.

Partnering with Career Academies to Deliver 4-H Robotics and Workforce Education

Cheryl Poppell, 4-H Agent/CEC, Toombs Co.; Susannah Lanier, 4-H Agent/CEC, Candler Co.; Megan Powell, 4-H Agent/CEC, Evans Co.; Jakyn Tyson, 4-H Agent/CEC, Emanuel Co.; Kasey Bozeman, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Science Programs

In Fall 2021, the Southeastern Early College and Career Academy (SECCA) located in Vidalia, Georgia, offered a first-of-its-kind "Make It, Move It" semester-long course. Four county agents and one state specialist were invited and delivered robotics and workforce lessons to youth enrolled in the class.

Extension Youth Development Professionals' Experiences Implementing Inclusive Youth Development Programming

Crystal Perry, 4-H Agent, Sumter Co.

The purpose of this basic, qualitative study is to explore the experiences of Extension youth development professionals (YDPs) as they work with youth living with disabilities. The results from this study inform other YDPs of current practices and program ideas to accommodate youth with disabilities.

New Computer Science Programming in Georgia 4-H

Kasey Bozeman, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Science Programs; Brennan Jackson, ANR Agent, Jones Co.; Becca Velasquez, 4-H Program Assistant, Baldwin Co.; Brittani Lee, 4-H Agent/CEC, Cobb Co.; Kennedy Deveau, 4-H Volunteer, Cobb Co.; Kelle Ashley, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Leadership and Civic Engagement Programs; Jodi Pandolfi, 4-H Educator, Taylor Co.; Christian Albritton, Student Assistant, Georgia 4-H State Office; Shawnie Sahadeo, 4-H Agent, Camden Co.; Cheryl Poppell, 4-H Agent/CEC, Toombs Co.; Megan Powell, 4-H Agent/CEC, Evans Co.; Susannah Lanier, 4-H Agent/CEC, Candler Co.; Jakyn Tyson, 4-H Agent/CEC, Emanuel Co.; Jackie Nunn, 4-H Agent, Putnam Co.; Lisa Pollock, 4-H Agent, Grady Co.; Jonathan Page, 4-H Educator, Jackson Co.; Jesse Scott, 4-H Volunteer, Rockdale Co.

Through the Growing a Computer Science Pathway for America's Youth, Georgia 4-H faculty, staff, and volunteers provided computer science programming to over 100 youth through day camps, in-school programming partnerships, and summer programming.

Utilizing the Share Fair Model to Enhance Program and Outreach Initiatives through Collaboration

Christina Garner, FACS Agent/CEC, Stewart Co.; Ashley Carroll, 4-H Agent, Tift Co.; Lauryn Gilmer, 4-H Agent/CEC, McIntosh Co.; Clark MacAlister, ANR Agent, Dawson/Lumpkin Co.; Karen Fambrough, Office of Learning and Organizational Development

As a part of Public Service and Outreach promotion at UGA, Extension faculty are expected to collaborate across units, colleges, and organizations to increase impact and productivity. The Extension Conference Share Fair showcased potential collaborative partners for Extension personnel to engage with faculty.

Keeping It R.E.A.L. (Ready to Engage in ATV Learning)

Sonya Jones, 4-H Agent/CEC, Pulaski Co.; Jay Porter, ANR Agent, Pulaski Co.

In order to properly address ATV safety training areas, a needs assessment was conducted using data collected from 4th, 5th, and 6th grade Pulaski County, Georgia, 4-H'ers during a regularly scheduled 4-H club meeting.

The Planning & Implementation Process of UGA Extension/Georgia 4-H Utilizing the FoodMASTER Middle Grades Curriculum

Kasey Bozeman, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Science Programs; Alexa Burnett, FACS Graduate Student; Sarah Henes, Extension Specialist and State EFNEP Coordinator, UGA FACS; Courtney Brown, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Healthy Living Programs; Terri Black, FACS Agent, Burke Co.; Meri Meckel, 4-H Agent, Burke Co.; Shawnie Sahadeo, 4-H Agent, Camden Co.; Rebecca Hardeman, FACS Agent/CEC, Clayton Co.; Cara Rhoad, 4-H Agent, Fayette Co.

UGA Extension FACS and 4-H Specialists partnered with FACS and 4-H Agents to plan and implement the science education activities with youth in four counties in Georgia. This poster explains the planning, implementation, and evaluation phases of the pilot project.

Adulting 101- Because Life Doesn't Come with a Manual

Brittani Lee, 4-H Agent/CEC, Cobb Co.; Pam Bloch, 4-H Agent, Gwinnett Co.; Brittany Teets, 4-H Agent/CEC, Rockdale Co.; Charlene Scott, 4-H Educator, Newton Co.

Adulting 101 is an educational series that was developed to teach students valuable life skills that are often not taught in the classroom. To combat this issue, the applicant team designed a monthly virtual series to engage youth in learning adulting skills such as budgeting, cooking, time management, and more.

Extension R.E.A.D.S. (Reaching and Empowering All Developing Scholars) Program Addresses Youth Literacy

Ashley Carroll, 4-H Agent, Tift Co.; Christina Garner, FACS Agent/CEC, Stewart Co.; Cora Keber, State Botanical Garden of Georgia

Unfortunately, many Georgia families have no age-appropriate books available in their homes, and this problem is especially prevalent in low-income households. To combat the challenges Georgia's youth and parents are facing with literacy that have been exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic, UGA Extension and the State Botanical Garden of Georgia joined forces to offer Extension R.E.A.D.S (Reaching and Empowering All Developing Scholars). This statewide initiative kicked off during the 2021 Read Across America Week with the goal of promoting youth literacy in an engaging and hands-on manner. Resources include books read aloud for various grade levels. Since the program began, the materials and resources earned a collective reach of over 8,500 contacts!

Mock Event Helps Prepare 4-H Youth for Area Cotton Boll and Consumer Judging Contest

Ashley Carroll, 4-H Agent, Tift Co.; Christina Garner, FACS Agent/CEC, Stewart Co.

Each year, an average of 600 youth across the state compete in Cotton Boll and Consumer Judging (CBCJ). CBCJ is a competitive judging program that helps youth understand the importance of cotton as an agricultural commodity, and make knowledgeable, rational decisions when purchasing goods and services in ways that maximize resources. To help 4-H'ers prepare, Southwest District hosted a mock event that enabled 4-H'ers to feel confident in presenting their advertisements, presenting oral reasons, and understanding how a contest will work.

Experience the Mini Sphero Robots in action! This session will demonstrate engaging ways to teach robotics and workforce preparation to middle and high school youth. The topics will include computer science, robotics, coding, and workforce preparation. The activities can be adapted to fit your county.

4-H Thrive Model

Hamilton A

Allie Griner, 4-H Agent, Gordon Co.; Mandy Marable, Extension 4-H Specialist, Georgia 4-H Curriculum and Staff Development; Lori Bledsoe, 4-H PDC, Northwest District; Pam Bloch, 4-H Agent, Gwinnett Co.

The 4-H Thriving model predicts that youth who participate in 4-H programs that provide a high-quality developmental context will thrive, and thriving youth achieve key developmental outcomes. This presentation will provide an overview of the model in relation to our 4-H work.

G.R.O.S.S. STEM

Walsh B

Sonya Jones, 4-H Agent/CEC, Pulaski Co.

In 4-H, where we encourage curiosity, hands-on learning, and questioning to understand, why not make things a little G.R.O.S.S. (Getting Real with Outrageously Strange Science)! Learn all about the human body and bugs as we discover the science behind gross bodily functions and strange bug behaviors!

Volunteer Development Video Series

Walsh A

Bill Hammond, 4-H Agent, Coweta Co.

Problems and frustrations can arise for 4-H staff when volunteers do not turn in sign-in sheets and forms, complete training, receipt money properly, etc.. The Coweta County 4-H Agent sought to further 4-H volunteer training and development by creating a quarterly video series specifically for volunteers.
