

Georgia/Florida Soybean Association

2425 South Milledge Avenue, Athens, Georgia 30605
Phone: 706-542-3793 Fax: 706-542-9397

The Georgia/Florida Soybean Association and The Georgia Soybean Commodity Commission invite soybean and small grain producers, users, and researchers to the December 15, 2022 Soybean/Small Grain Expo, to be held at the Georgia National Fairgrounds and Agricenter, Perry, Georgia. The Expo will provide up to date marketing projections and the newest production techniques, as well as remarks from University of Georgia College of Agriculture and Environmental Sciences leaders. Below is a list of a few of the featured speakers:

2023 Ag Policy Update
Jake Matthews
Georgia Farm Bureau

Climate Change and The Impact on Wheat Variety Breeding
Steve Harrison
Louisiana State University
School of Plant, Soil, and Environmental Sciences

World Outlook for Southern Ag Commodities
Nathan Smith
Clemson University

Soybean and Wheat Production in 2023
Rome Ethredge
Owner of Seminole Crop Consulting

The Institute for Integrative Precision Agriculture at CAES
Dean Nick Place
College of Agriculture and Environmental Sciences

Next Step in Agricultural Water Management: An Update on the Georgia Flow Incentive Trust
Mark Masters
Executive Director of the Georgia Water Planning and Policy Center, Albany State

Small Grain Diseases- Identification, Prevention and Control
Alfredo Martinez
Professor and Extension Plant Pathologist
Griffin, GA

Back to the Future: Weed Control in conventional Soybeans
Eric Prostko
Professor/Extension Weed Specialist
University of Georgia

And many other presentations relating to soybean/wheat production.

Attendees are invited to visit with our exhibitors who will be showcasing the latest in new varieties, pest control, etc.

Attend and receive two hours Pesticide Applicator Credits for commercial categories 21 (Agricultural Plant), 25 (Seed Treatment) and one hour for Private Applicators.